RECENT REFLECTIONS. -Solomon's creamery will commence operations March 1st, -Thos. Thompson and Anna Pearson were granted a marriage license. -Henry Litts spent two weeks at Topeka in the interest of John Martin for senator. It is understood that if Martin holds his seat in the senate Litts will be the next postmaster of

-Rev. J. S. Ford is commencing revival meetings at Enterprise. Mr. Ford has had magnificant success as a pastor and his work in the county has received the warmest praise from church people.

-Prophet Kropff has some grudge against mankind and we are informed that he is not going to make any predictions as to crops this year but compel the world to struggle along without his valuable suggestions. It seems cruel but as he has made up his mind there is no help for it.

-Emma, the five year old daughter of Mr and Mrs. W. B. Parks, died yesterday aftereoon and was buried at 4 today, funeral services being held at the house. The family lives near the Shook residence and it is supposed that the disease was thus contracted, she having died of diphtheria.

-David Croft poses as the champion cyster eater of Abilene. The boys who Emporia. went with him to Galveston say that native lair, that he ate 73 of them at one sitting. That beats the record.

-Marriageable young people seen to have a boycott on Probate Judge Hutchipson. He has not yet had an opportunity to tie a nuptial knot although he has a pretty formula by though he has a pretty formula by torpid liver, piles, const-pation Uneq heart in readiness for a chance to use unlied for men, wentern, children it. He is thinking of offering a reduced rate for 30 days in order to cas. Samples free at J. M. Gleissner s. duced rate for 30 days in order to brighten trade up a little.

-The many friends of Conductor Maynard, who for several years bus run through Abilene on the Santa Fe passenger train, will be sorry to learn of his death of pneumonia at Emporia a thorough gentleman, a capable official work for the remainder of the school and a kind hearted friend. He made year. frien to of all who knew him.

-Cheering news comes floating up from Topeka to the effect that Abilene's distinguished patriot, Bill Decker, has after many days been recognized by the administration and has been ap pointed fireman in the state house Opinion is divided as to whether he shovels coal in the furnaces or turns on the radiators but in either event it is certain that Bill will execute the duties of the office with neatness and dispatch

-Prof. Bicks is in it again. He predicted that from January 25 to 27, we were to look for rain or snow and after a few days of warmer weather bard freezing weather about the SIat He forecasts for February 1st cold, 5th warmer with rain or snow to the 7-h Then will follow a cold wave extend ing to the 12th, and cold with sleet, rain, thunder, snow to the 19th, and storms and much cold to the end of the month,

Death in North Dickinson.

Mr Samuel Walters, one of North Dickinson's farmers, died at his home in Hayes township Friday, aged about 48 years. He was born in Horngton, Supi, J. C. Another Formerly of Abilene Man Heard From

There appears to be something about Abliene that keeps men straight. At my rate an alarming oumber of "form erly of Abilene" people are being heard from who have been quable to rest-t the temptation to wickedness and have covered themselves and incidentally their former residence with more or less diagrace. We have been recording about one a day for a week and from rumors that are affint there is going to block, be material for a number of other interesting chapters in the series which we are thinking of running as continued story under some such title as "Tampered with femp ation; or, Abilencites Wno Dabbled to Sen."

The latest on the list is told of in the following letter to Marshall Brown eceived last ev-ning:

GOLDEN CITY, Mo., Jan 24. - I wish you would leak up one Emer Els worth who once fived in your city and has a wife living there now. He came to this county lest summer and passed bimself off as a single mou and married one of our best girls. He look ber off 50 or 60 miles on a bridal tour, stayed with her a few days and deserted her Any information will be gladly re-ceived. M HRKEDEN.

Ellsworth left Abilene som-thing like eighteen months ago. His wife thouhgt and probably hoped he was dead. She was quite overcome when she heard of his escapade. She left on the midnight train for Chicago where alse will stay with an aunt, Her mother is Mrs. Russell, who removed from here to

A SOLDILR HERMIT.

Gen. Pleasanton's Lie of Utter Secinsion lu a Washi gton motel.

"Alone in a great city; practically a hermit smid the throngs of the nation' espital; living a life of comfort and contentment, but a life of seciusion and ex clusive retirement."

Such was the answer given in reply to an inquiry a few days ago regarding the welfare and whereabouts of Maj Gen. Alfred Pleasanton, whose name exhibition of the infinite deviltry that and fame a few years ago were on the abides in some people's hearts. Cruel lips of nine-tenths of the American people, and the records of whose exploits to animals is a crime for which as one of the greatest cavalry leaders of our late war would fill volumes of graphic history. Apparently in the full possession of all his mental faculties, and with no serious physical aliment, this man of genus, a soldier of two great wars, and explorer nearly fifty years ago of the then unknown domain of our great western territory-an In dian fighter of great renown, a travele whose face and figure was at one tim well known in every court of all th great powers of the old world, a schoar, bon vivant. wit and most companionable of all the agreeable public men of his day-voluntarily betook himself to his private apartment in a snug little hotel in the very heart of Washington, on May 15, 1890, and his not since been seen by or talied with, all told, more than a dozen of his fellow beings. And, with two or three exceptions, those who have seen or talked with him since that date have been of those necessary to him in administering to his persons

There was a bill pending in congress to retire him as a brigadier-general. He feit that so much as that recognition was his due at the hands of country he had served so faithfully. He had been a major-general in command of the cavalry corps of the army of the Potomac; he had fought the first real cavalry fight of the war at Brandy Sta-tion, June 12, 1868, and then and there proved his superior abilities as a dashng and almost invincible commander had met and thwarted the advance of the enemy upon dettysburg holding Lee's armies in doubt and abeyance until Meade's infantry came up to fight the decisive battle of the war, and had never been found wanting when duty and patriotism required his presence either in camp or in the field.

The canvas back, the terrapin and all the dishes he reished so highly in days of yore have been abandoned. But he and everything his appetite may crave, and, with good digestion waiting upon t, he cats to live and contentedly re-naries that he no longer lives to cat. In other matter his habits are regular for like clock-work, he gets all the daily pupers, keeping well posted regarding the affairs of the world of which he is part and parcel, but which he holds away off at arm's length, and with which he associates as little as pos-

No one of the few who see him ever think of asking him a reason for this most marvellous change in his manner of living, for they know it would be uselens. In fact he has resented several inquiries of that kind in such a manner as to show that kind in such a manner as to show that they are extremely distasteful to him. Gen. Rosecrans wrote to him about a year and a half ago asking about his health and other questions that any old-time friend would be apt to ask, but he did not answer the contract of the property of the property. etter for months; and it is now nearly a year since ' Rosey' saw "Kate," The general was not always seessible, but of tentimes when in the humor he could be and was one of the most en-tertaining and agreeable of men. Not many years ago I occasionally enjoyed the rare pleasure, on bright moonlight summer nights, when all the town was ascep, of inviting the general to ride with me in an open "victoria" about the quiet, embowered streets of the north west part of this beautiful city. With his ever-present pipe or vigarette in his hand, he was wont to discourse of men and events, of science, art, poetry, of travel, adventure, history and discovery -a treat that was as rure as it was in-teresting, as instructive as it was uncommon, and only to be equalled, in my experience with similar talks, in which I was the listener only, that I often en-joyed after the war during the ten years of intimate service under and as-sociation with that other paragon among soldiers and scholars, the late Maj Gen. Gouverneur K. Warren, of the corps of engineers and the famous commander of the Fifth army corps.

tien. Pleasanton was never married, although in the long ago, when, as a classmate describes him, "he was the handsomest youngster in the army," he was assuredly a great catch and must have been the object of great solicitude among the match-making mammas of those days. - Washington Star.
